AMARI

"Can I offer you an amaro?" is the reassuring phrase to be heard at the conclusion of a meal in Italy.

Amaro is an Italian herbal liqueur produced by macerating herbs, roots, flowers, bark, and/or citrus peels in alcohol, either neutral spirits or wine, mixing the filtrate with sugar syrup, and allowing the mixture to age in casks or bottles.

GRAPPE

Distilled from leftover grape skins, invented by Italian farmers to get through the cold winter months. It was good at warming you up.

For generations, Italians enjoyed it after meals and even added a little to their morning espresso, (café corretto) to "correct" it.

ABSINTHE

*Historically described as a distilled, highly alcoholic beverage. It is an anise-flavored spirit derived from botanicals, including the flowers and leaves of Artemisia absinthium ("grand wormwood"), together with green anise, sweet fennel, and other medicinal and culinary herbs. Absinthe traditionally has a natural green color but may also be colorless. Normally diluted with water prior to being consumed.*

RYE WHISKEY

Rye whiskey was the prevalent whiskey of the northeastern states, but largely disappeared after Prohibition. Now in an era where strong flavors are back in style, rye is enjoying a new golden age. It has to have a mash content of at least 51% rye and aged for at least two years in new charred oak barrels

BOURBON

American Bourbon is distilled once, then aged in fresh charred oak barrels. Bourbons impart a raw, sweet corn flavor due to the fact that bourbon is made with at least 51% corn. Small batch bourbons are made in limited quantities, aged six to nine years, and are characteristic of pre-Prohibition whiskey, with strong, rich flavors, heat, and aromas.

SCOTCH WHISKY

Die-hard aficionados swear that nothing is finer than a single malt with its characteristic regional flavors. Derived from malted barley Scotch is double-distilled and the malted barley is dried using peat smoke, imparting earthy, smoky, salty and oily characteristics, depending upon the region in which it is produced. Scotch is aged first in used bourbon barrels for at least three years.

Older, rarer Scotches receive additional aging in madeira, port, or other casks.

HIGHLAND

By far the biggest region geographically, the Highland malts inevitably embrace wide and robust flavor variations. Generally heavier and drier in character compared to other regions, whiskies from here often have nutty, honey, heather or peaty notes. Distilleries near the sea also have some salty, maritime influences in their malts.

CAMPBELTOWN

Campbeltown, the small coastal town at the tip of the Kintyre peninsula, once boasted over 30 local distilleries but now has just three. Nevertheless, they are still considered by serious malt lovers to represent a distinct region in their own right. Single malts produced here are noticeable for their briny character and some boast peaty notes.

LOWLAND

There are only a handful of Lowland distilleries still operating, producing softer, lighter style single malts that are traditionally known as the 'Lowland Ladies'. Whiskies from here are known for their malty, zesty flavors with slightly fruity, citrusy and sometimes floral notes.

AUCHENTOSHAN THREWOOD	20
-----------------------	----

SPEYSIDE

The biggest region in terms of production, half of all Scottish distilleries can be found here. Speyside single malts are noted in general for their elegance and complexity, sometimes with a refined smokiness but more often a fruitiness ranging from ripe pears to sultanas.

ISLAY

Pronounced "eye-luh", this is the greatest of whisky-producing islands. It is only 25 miles long, but has no fewer than eight distilleries. It's covered in peat which is exposed to rain and sea spray. Harvested and used to malt the barley used in distilling, the peat gives the single malts here their characteristic smoky flavor with some salty, seaweed notes.

BLENDDED

Roughly nine out of 10 bottles of Scotch sold around the world are blends – that is, a mix of grain and single malt whiskies. These products are the lifeblood of the industry and the liquid expression of an art form that borders on alchemy: combining myriad components to create one harmonious and consistent whole.

IRISH WHISKEY

The Irish may have been the first distillers in the British Isles and, for a brief period in the 19th century, Irish whiskey reigned supreme over its Scottish rival. Boom was followed by bust – and near extinction – but today the good times are back, with distilleries popping up all over the Emerald Isle.

JAPANESE WHISKY

It's no secret that Japanese whisky has taken the world by storm in the past five years, but it's far from new. When Masataka Taketsuru returned to Japan from Scotland in the early 1920s, having studied distilling, he, in essence, became responsible for the birth of Japanese whisky, including the Yamazaki and Nikka brands directly.

ARMAGNAC

Armagnac is a grape brandy produced in the Gascony region of south-west France, as it has been since at least the 15th century. A fuller-bodied (some would say rustic) style of brandy when compared to Cognac.

COGNAC

For the past three centuries, Cognac has been universally recognized as the finest of all the spirits that are distilled from grapes. It has many incomparable qualities: fruitiness, subtlety of bouquet, intensity, warmth and, above all, the complexity of the many thousands of styles and flavors from a (predominantly) single grape variety.

GIN

Taken at its most basic, it's just a spirit that's flavored with juniper. But behind that simple facade lies one of the world's most complex and best-loved spirits, with a history that spans hundreds of years and reaches back to the dawn of distillation.

TEQUILA

The flavor profile of tequila is impacted by the region where the agave is grown – in the highlands or the lowlands. Due to differences in elevation and weather, the agave plants grown in each area create different tasting tequilas. Highland agave plants are bigger and richer with a longer growing cycle, making the tequila sweeter and fruitier with floral hints. Lowland agaves have a shorter growing cycle and give tequila an earthy and herbaceous flavor and are often spicier.

MONTECRISTO EPIC 20

4 1/8" x 34 Medium - Dominican Republic

The most complex, flavorful Montecristo ever made. The Montecristo Epic is made using Vintage Dominican and Nicaraguan fillers from as far back as 2007, surrounded by a Nicaraguan binder, and wrapped in a luscious Ecuadorian Habano wrapper.

MONTECRISTO 80TH ANNIVERSARY LIMITED EDITION 36

6" x 54 Full - Dominican Republic

A box pressed torpedo with an Ecuadorian Sumatra wrapper, Dominican binder and fillers from Nicaragua and the Dominican Republic. Hints of roasted cedar and nuts and creamy sweet cocoa. Some of the tobacco grown for this cigar used Pilotico tobacco seeds brought from Cuba pre-embargo, stored, and grown in the Dominican Republic in 2013. Only 3000 boxes made.

PADRON SERIE 1926 NO. 9 MADURO 30

4 3/4" x 50 Full - Nicaragua

The Padron 1926 Series No. 9 Maduro Toro, like all cigars in the 1926 Series, employs only tobaccos aged for five full years. These refined tobaccos are blended and shrouded with a 5 year aged, midnight black maduro wrapper to create exceptional smoothness, complexity, and balance rarely found in full-bodied cigars. Continuing the Padron tradition, the Serie 1926 #9 Maduro is offered in a box-pressed format with a specially designed double band featuring an individually numbered guarantee label that is applied to each and every Padron 1926 cigar.
